DEDICATION

We, the senior class of 1970, gratefully and respectfully dedicate this year's PIRATE LOG to our friend, teacher, and coach, Mr. Duane Marcellus, whose leadership, abilities and ideals have influenced our lives greatly during his years at Twin Rivers High School.

FOREWORD

The Annual Staff of Twin Rivers High School presents to you the 1970 Pirate Log. The episodes of the school year, such as sports events, music events, tests, homecoming, prom, class plays, dances, and associations with our friends, are very special to each one of us. These memories are the beginning of our lives and will be cherished as long as we live. Therefore, we hope this book will bring hours of enjoyment in years to come. It is the Pirate Log of our final year, and we present it to you as a token of our final school days.

I, Paul Bakken, will my ability to slam doors, turn on lights, flush the stool, and climb the stairs at night without waking my folks to my brother. Don't try to sneak, they'll hear you every time.
I, Cheryl Brown, will to Tom Eisenbarth my 'ole Chrysler. The air-conditioning might be a little better than old Betsy has.
I, Roger Collins, will....YEAH!
I, John Dahl, will my ability to get along with teachers to Lynn Pentico.
I, Janet Eisenbarth, will my nickname "Bertha" to anyone who can live up to its meaning. I double dare ya!
I, Sharon Fredericksen, will my ability in P.E. to Rip. You need it!
I, Terry Fredericksen, will nothing to nobody because I need everything I got.
I, Randy Fuhrmann, will my spotlight and knowledge of parking places to Brent Hanson. Maybe he can do the bush-whacking now.
I, Robert Gress, will my wrestling ability to Mr. Fethkenher.
I, Rodney Hacker, will my black sheep to Sue Paeper. It will help her stock up on her flock.
I, Nancy Harris, will my girlish body to Frog.
I, Cal Haug, will my parallel parking ability to Mr. Raney.
I, Bruce Hawkins, will my driving ability to Terry Demory.
I, Jackie Jacobson, will my contacts to Cindy Hankins. With all they've been through already, you couldn't even hurt 'em.
I, Tom Jacobson, will my car to Mr. Wolfe, because it's just tougher than 7734. (Read that upside down Mr. Wolfe.)
I, Carmen Janssen, will my singing ability to Vickie King. May you enjoy it to the fullest.
I, Scott Kampen, being of sound mind and fagged feet, will my two mile dash to Mr. Marcellus.
I, Glen Kellner, will all of my telephone calls to Gary Graaf in hopes that he will get the telephone call he is still waiting for.
I, Cheryl Kissinger, will my great track ability to Miriam MacKintosh and Patty Jacobson. Now you can run as fast as a turtle.
I, Jan Nelson, will my voo doo doll to anyone who has the same pain in the neck I do.
I, Denise Olson, will my last remaining strike to anyone who has ability and a zipper on their mouth so they can participate in band next year; providing I still have a strike left to will.
I, Diane Olson, will my trim, little, skinny figure to Jody Terwilliger. Pleasantly plump really isn't so bad, Jody!
I, Robert Olson, will my superior speed in track to Gary Telford. You know the warning, SPEED KILLS.
I, Dave Pentico, will my height to Miss Tuinstra. It isn't much but you need all you can get.
I, Jeanne Pflibsen, will my 1959 Ford to Mr. Brock. I hope it starts everyday next winter for you so you won't have to walk to school when you Chevy doesn't start. Ford has a better idea, than Chevy anyway.
I, Jeannette Rhodes, will my long straight hair to Janet Eisenbarth, who ia always complaining about hers.
I, Chris Rosenau, will my ability to work at the Coke plant to Jim Terwilliger, in hopes that he can drink more Coke than I have.
I, Darrell Satern, will my ability to run the pottery wheel to anybody who wants to run it. But don't put clay in the pullies. Good-bye.
I, Dave Seagren, will all of my dark socks to Mr. DeBoom. Now you don't have to wear white ones.
I, Ernie Simon, will my Marine helmet to Mr. Pierick as a token of appreciation for all his help.
I, Debi Sinclair, will Jell Jenson the wrestling holds I've learned. It's too bad you won't have the same coach I had.
I, Rita Smith, will my chair in band to Carolyn Olson. Now you can sit where the experts sit.
I, Dave Thilges, will my ears to Skip Olson.
I, Amy Wehrspann, will my ability to throw the softball to first base to Patty Jacobson. With that added burst of power you're sure to get it to second.
I, Norm Zeman, will my weight lifting ability to burly Gary Graff. Now when the cheerleaders hear this you'll be their number one draft choice for the coming year, because body improvement was one of the many features our cheerleaders were lacking.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

My fellow doctor of Journalism, Janet Eisenbarth, and I, Diane Olson, have promised Dr. Robert Olson to be guinea pigs in an experiment involving his self-designed, self-built time machine. Robert is now a professor of Science at Harvard. As we anticipate what we will see in the future, our old classmate, Glen Kellner, is flicking switches and turning dials. He is Robert's fast learning lab assistant. With a whir of the motor and a sudden darkness, we are off for an adventure into the future. Our first stop on our trip is a sauerkraut factory where we see ite production manager, Carmen Janssen, diligently working away. Ever since her trip to Germany, she has wanted to get into a related field. She tells us that Jan Nelson and Rita Smith are co-owners of the "Nelson and Smith Cartooning and Caricatures Co." specializing in cartoon strips for newspaper funny pages. They tickle millions of American's funnybones every day. We chance upon Rodney Hacker, a successful taxi driver in downtown Rutland. He suggests that if we're looking for entertainment, "Kampen's Cozy Car Drive-In", owned by Scott Kampen himself, is right outside the city. Apparently Scott decided to let this generation in on the fun he had when he was young. Another stop brings us in front of a police station. As we enter to ask directions, we are greeted by Paul Bakken sitting at the desk of Chief of Police. He says he decided to keep the profession running in the family. We discover that Randy Fuhrmann is the private chauffeur of Hugh Hepner and his bunnies. I'll bet his job really keeps him hoppin'. As we leave the station and start down the street, our attention is attracted to a large billboard saying "Bob's Boozes-all liquors presampled and tested by Bob himself," and a large picture of Bob Gress! Smart guy to cash in on natural ability! The next time we are set down beside a race track, of all places. As we glance around for a familiar face, we see an old classmate sitting on top of a horse. Fortunately, Dave Pentico has been able to take advantage of his size as a much-in-demand jockey for Shetland ponies. I feel a tap on the shoulder, and I turn around to face Bruce Hawkins and Terry Fredericksen. These two have taken over the Golden Nugget in Las Vegas and are making millions in this establishment. We hear the cry "Ice Cream" and look toward the source of the voice. Why, it's Dave Seagren! He grew tired of the car business and decided the profession of popsicle peddler would be easier on him. The machine once again takes us away. When we land, we are in the dense forests of northern Saskatchewan, near to a large building made of logs. We enter and happily greet Mr. and Mrs. Cal Haug. Cal is the owner and operator of Haug's Hunting and Hibernation Lodge," a rabbit-hunting retreat there in the sticks. Mrs. Haug, the former Denise Olson, acts as medicine doctor for local Indian tribes. Nicknamed "Laughing Mouth" by the Indians, she also treats grizzlies and cougars, not to mention housecats. We leave the lodge and are met in the path by a Catholic sister. At first we don't recognize her, then we realize it is Jeanne Pflibsen, who has just recently given up her discotheque. She tells us of Amy Wehrspann, who is now working with the Peace Corps. The Watusi tribes teach Amy to dance, in return for her teaching them to pitch. Our next stop finds us in a large park. We are met by Cheryl Kissinger who tells us she is the chief paper picker-upper here in Central Park. We are told that Cheryl's Nifty Knitting Nook for Nurses" run by Cheryl Brown is right down the street. She knows all the tricks of the trade. We also hear that John Dahl is currently working in Siberia as a perfume salesman and that Sharon Fredericksen has just received the Gold Medal for skateboarding in the Olympics for the third straight year. All of a sudden we are being transported in a rocket ship. Our pilot is Roger Collins. He says he enjoys piloting rockets because he believes it's safer than driving wheels. We have just landed on the moon, in the middle of a rather large metropolitan area. A sign says "Satern's Moonbeam Motel for Honeymoon Couples." Our curiosity leads us into the main office and there sits Darrell Satern, the owner and manager. He syas that Dave Thilges is an eletrician here on the moon, in charge of lighting craters, which sometimes can be a shocking job! Darrell also tells us of Chris Rosenau being bottling manager of Coca-Cola on the moon company branch. Their jobs are really out of this world! While we talk to Darrell, Mrs. Satern enters the room. The former Deb Sinclair is active in the Moon Mothers All-Star basketball team. She has joined this group because of ten little Saterns. Funny what a ring will do! Back on earth again, we find the top-paid model in the world, Jackie Jacobson, being photographed. She has just recently won first prize in the Mrs. Jolly Green Giant Look Alike Contest. Jackie informs us that Ernie Simon is president of the A.E.L. which is short for Anti-Everything League. Ernie must be in his glory! She also says that if we want anything to eat, "Jake's Jug", is just around the corner. Tom Jacobson owns the place, and it even serves food with its beverages. On our way into Tom's place, we meet Norm Zeman coming out. Norm is just leaving for his job, which is posing as muscleman for weight-lifting advertisements. He tells us that Nancy Harris is an Avon representative on Jeannette Rhode's Island, located on the upper Des Moines River. Jeanette and Nancy are co-owners of the island, which is used as a resort for Iowa millionaires. We return at last to Robert's lab. It's been an interesting and unusual trip. What will the time machine show for the class of 1970 in about ten years? Only time will tell!!

EXCHANGE STUDENTS

ROGERIO BITTENCOURT NEYDE NERY

Well, we just came to write in this book some words about this new experience that we are taking for about six months here in U.S.A. The school and everything have been really interesting for us. They are kind of different and all these things look like come more easily for us. We are learning a lot of things that maybe we couldn't have a chance to learn before. Everybody here are more friendly and you really know how to make friends and help each one. I think these young Americans have one nice future to enjoy and work for it. I couldn't lleave here without talking about the snow it was very funny for us, all those things like snowmobiles and other things like that we never will forget our stay here in U.S.A.

I like the school and community very much. Being in America has taught me many things and the friends I have here, I will always remember. The students put fun and study together and that makes it more interesting than in Brazil. I have noticed how people here love their country and speak of it often where in Brazil there is nothing. I've really changed a lot and the experiences I have had will always stay with me. I like this community because it is small and so we can really see how the American family lives. The day of my trip back home is really coming fast and I know I'll miss everyone something terrible.
